

Biographical notes

Claude Lamoureux

Corporate director

An actuary by training, Claude Lamoureux was the first CEO of Teachers', the Ontario Teachers' Pension Plan Board. Between 1990 and 2007, the year he retired, Mr. Lamoureux made Teachers' a highly innovative pension plan, with assets of over $100 billion and offering exceptional services to its membership of over 250,000.

Before his arrival at Teachers', Mr. Lamoureux worked at Metropolitan Life Insurance Company—first in the United States then in Canada, where he headed up activities between 1986 and 1990. Co-founder of the Canadian Coalition for Good Governance, Mr. Lamoureux has been a member of several Boards of Directors, currently sitting on the boards of Industrial Alliance, Maple Leaf Foods, Orbite Aluminae, St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto and the York University Foundation.

Holder of a degree in business administration from Université de Montréal and in commerce from Université Laval, Claude Lamoureux has also been granted honorary doctorates from York University and Université de Montréal.

Fellow of the Canadian Institute of Actuaries and the Institute of Corporate Directors, he is also an Officer of the Order of Canada and of the Ordre National du Québec and a member of the Order of Ontario.